

Choosing And using Pheromone Cologne - The Non-chemist's Guide to Personal Chemistry

Have you ever met someone who appeared to have got 'that certain something', who 'radiated confidence' or even 'oozed sexiness'? An amount it be like should you suddenly found oneself more appealing and also appealing to be with, getting more positive attention from everybody a person share data together with each day? Just how much would you enjoy in which kind of optimistic alteration of the life?

That is how much you need when you are using pheromones. But, are you afraid you need a degree in chemistry to understand these types of products? Well, you don't, because this is actually the non-chemist's guide to personal chemistry. I will explain all you need to know so that you can have some fun finding the magic formula that will take your social connections to another location degree - right now!

What are Pheromones and How Would They Affect Others?

Think of them as fragrances in which are designed not only to smell good, but also to be able to impact people in a subtle and unconscious way - the same way you would be affected by being close to a very attractive person.

“ The kind of pheromone products you will decide to buy depends on the information you want to send. There are many formulations in the marketplace, that can generally can be classified depending on their desired effect. Based on this, these people fall into these groups: Sexual stimulating elements and attractants (make you more sexy) Warm and fuzzy (make you more approachable, huggable, people want to get close to you) Man of the house (dominant but not necessarily sexual) Trust in a bottle (create trust and also relationship with associates of both sex)

That's right, although pheromone effects are more pronounced with members of the opposite sex, they do have a non-sexual relation to members of the same sex as well. The net effect is that other people will perceive you to be more attractive and pleasant to be around in a number of ways.

And since the products imitate natural body chemistry, these tendencies are very natural and unconscious on the part of those people who are affected. Some of the people you meet will be more 'tuned into' the pheromones. I have found that a lot of younger women in particular are affected and attracted to the products. Nice to get in which kind of attention, isn't really it?

By the Numbers

Here is how pheromones will continue to work for you: Why don't we assume that you are a woman that guys might rate 7 on their attractiveness scale. What would it be like for you if you are suddenly perceived as a 8 or 8.5? What if you were a 5 and could suddenly be perceived as a 6.5 or 7?

Or, if you are a guy that is always 'just friends' along with women - what would it be like to all of a sudden be perceived as sexier - someone they just felt compelled to hold, to touch and kiss? Maybe you already come across to the ladies as sexually aggressive - maybe too much so. Won't you choose great youngster should be radiate the trust, comfort and ease, as well as warmth that lets them sense safer around you?

Can you imagine the difference this would make in your life? It could range from dramatic to subtle in order to not at all, depending on the particular person and interaction. But you know you will feel more confident, interesting and attractive and have lots more opportunities and choices in social situations.

What They Will Not Do - a Reality Check

So, will people end up being driven to you like a magnet from across the room, or crowd around you simply to bask in your presence? Maybe, but not likely.

Will each member of the opposite sex be hopelessly drawn to you? Not necessarily - some people just can't handle being around a very attractive person. Their reaction may be to be able to 'freeze or flee' when you are just too hot to handle. Overall, a nice problem to possess, right think?

- Will you see a dramatic improvement in your love life?
- Probably, but that is largely up to you.
- But, you will have a lot of opportunities to improve it utilizing these products!

How They Affect You

One of the more interesting and unexpected effects will be the change in how you feel when you start using the products. Because the pheromones affect you at the same time and the same way they are affecting others, and you will find yourself feeling more attractive and appealing - not a bad side effects to have going into a social situation.

When Pheromones Go Wrong - Overdose?

Will it make a very sexy person sexier? There are situations where a little is good and a whole lot is not as good. (Happens with regular fragrances, too, doesn't it?) If you happen to be a great 'alpha' male or female, adding pheromones to your chemistry may intimidate a few members of the opposite sex or bring out aggressiveness in the members of the same sex as as they unconsciously react to the challenge you present.

Who Uses These, Which Should Make Use of Them

By now you have figured out that pheromones are not just for dating and sexual attraction. You may already be aware that psychological studies have shown that attractive people are more successful in all areas of life.

- Anyone who is in sales, or has a lot of public contact will take advantage of using pheromones.
- And, the benefits to be able to someone who will be dating and socializing are obvious.
- Or, you might be thinking that you want to rekindle the flame and add some excitement to your existing relationships.

How to Obtain Started

Experimentation is the best way to find out what works best for you. Everyone's personal chemistry is different, and your mileage, as they say, will be different. Fortunately there are a number of samplers and beginner kits available and that is where you want to begin.

Experiment and Have Some Fun

Try using the same product for several days in a row and pay attention to the reactions of people around you. Try it in the recommended application level, then vary it - add some extra, don't use quite just as much. Next try another product for a while. And, most good pheromone suppliers will have a lot of information and advice in on-line discussion boards and discussion groups.

Bottom Line

Do they work and are they really worth it? Absolutely!!!
